MYSTERIOUS MISSION OF

Nanking Agent Visits Canton And Nanning

ALL INFORMATION REFUSED TO THE PRESS

[From Our Own Correspondent]

Canton, To-day. Concluding his mysterious mission to Canton and Nanning. General Huang Shao-hsiung, Nanking agent, left here for Hong Kong yesterday en route HEAT WAVE IN to the North. General Huang arrived here on Saturday in the company of General Li Chungjen, head of the Kwangsi army and member of the South-west Political Conneil.

General Huang's mission gave rise to much speculation owing to his refusal to disclose the nature of his visit. He was most reluctant to receive newspaper men and made some non-committal remarks when questioned by them.

One report has it that he was offered the vice-Presidency of the Executive Yuan shortly after Mr. Wang Ching-wei submitted his resignation, and came South secure the support of his former colleagues for the high office setting of the sun. Now that Mr. Wang has resumed his job, the offer to General Huang has lapsed.

Berne, To-day. The final session of the Italo-Abyssinian conciliation commission was held yesterday.

An official communique published in the afternoon states: The Italo-Abyssinian Conciliation Commission heard the Italian and Abyssinian representatives' statements and deductions, and, after addressing some questions at the witnesses previously heard, decided to adjourn the session and refer the questions to the Commission's members for further discussion.

"The statements of the Italian native soldiers have been of great importance in the reconstructing of the Ual Ual episode," stated one member of the Commission to pressmen. He added that the Abyssinians had not themselves invited witnesses. A definite agreement was nevertheless still difficult, and it will probably be necessary to clear up some questions pertaining to sovereignty without, however, touching on the ques-

HARD AND FAST RULES

New hats, inspired by the Italian Art Exhibit in Paris, call for curled and swirled coiffures) that are a bit more pretentious than, probably, you had planned to wear this summer. If you go to tea, in a half-hat that doesn't cover more than a few square inches of your head, or to dinner in an equally revealing turban. 30 you simply must wear a rather formal hair style instead of the simple coiffure that looks so well in sports.

Styles To Order Frankly, the comparatively new idea of coiffures to go with hats is rapidly becoming a hard and fast rule. These days, a smart woman goes directly from her hat 30 shop to her hairdresser, so he may design a coiffure that flat-26 ters not only her face, but harm-28 onises with the new hat as well. 28 If the bonnet is off-the-face, it's 28 more than likely the expert will alarrange a style that emphasizes her widow's peak If she has 30 nice ears, perhaps he will place 30 rows of ringlets upward and for-30 ward. BEAUTY

Little Money Needed For Its Cultivation

Beauty has always been one of the chief attributes of women. but surely there has been no period like the present in which much money has been spent of its cultivation. Yet with all the thought and pursuit of beauty most women need to spend remarkably little time in attaining that soignee appearance which is deemed so essential to-day. This is probably because beau-

Strange Discarding To Elude Squeeze

By Ely Culbertson

A double squeeze is not generally considered one of the simpler plays, and methods of defeating it are more difficult than the squeeze itself. On to-day's hand the East and West players managed an escape worthy of Houdini by discarding their high cards and retaining their low-ones. If this procedure seems a little insane at first glance, perhaps the reason is the well-known affinity between insanity and genius. South, Dealer

FORWARD LINE PROBLEM MUST BE SOLVED

JUNIORS' WEALTH OF TALENT

("By Rover")

THE Hong Kong Football Club, doyen among soccer Clubs in the Colony, have practically BRITISH TEAM the same players at their disposal for their senior eleven as those who played throughout last season.

The only noticeable feature is the return of Desmond Hynes to the defence and the possible inclusion of Sykes, a newcomer, who arrived in the Colony recently with a fairly good soccer reputation.

George Rodger, veteran custodian, will be making his last appearance in the side as captain.

NORONHA FALTERS AFTER MOST PROMISING START

(By "Skip")

WITHOUT being seriously threatened at any time, the Kowloon B.G.C. four skipped by A. M. Holland (P. T. Farrell, R. Duncan and J. C. Brown) beat C. G. Silva's Recreio rink (J. E. Noronha, C. E. Marques and F. X. Silva) by 25 shots to 14, to become 1935 Colony Rinks champions, on the Kowloon C.C. green yesterday.

The sudden downpour may have had something to do with the surprising result, for it was never anticipated that either rink would be trounced. On the first head, even before the skips had had time to bowl, rain interfered and the game was postponed for about 20 minutes, during which time the players had tea. After this the game was resumed and concluded without another stop.

The Austin Road rink was easily the superior force, although any luck that was going invariably went to them. The outstanding player was J. C. Brown, Holland's No. 3, who had his opposite number beaten on the most of the heads, although F. X. Silva was playing a better game yesterday than he has done for some time.

Senator Thomas Calls For Stabilisation

RESOLUTION FORMULATED FOR NEXT CONGRESS

Washington, To-day. Silver will be made an early issue at the next Congress as result of the introduction of a resolution by Senator Thomas calling upon the Treasury to "proimmediately" with Government's silver policy. Senator Thomas said he would press for action on this resoluning on January 3.

The resolution demands the continuance of silver purchases until a ratio of 25 per cent. silver and 75 per cent. gold has been reached. Prof. or a price of $1.29 has been attained. After this has been achieved the price should be stabilised by a "free sale and purchase of silver" at that price.—Reuter.

nor would he even suffer pain by seeing, in the distance, the long line of heifers following the new bull across the pastures, for his paddock was separated from the cow-pasture by a mile of veld, rising and falling in deep, swelling undulations.

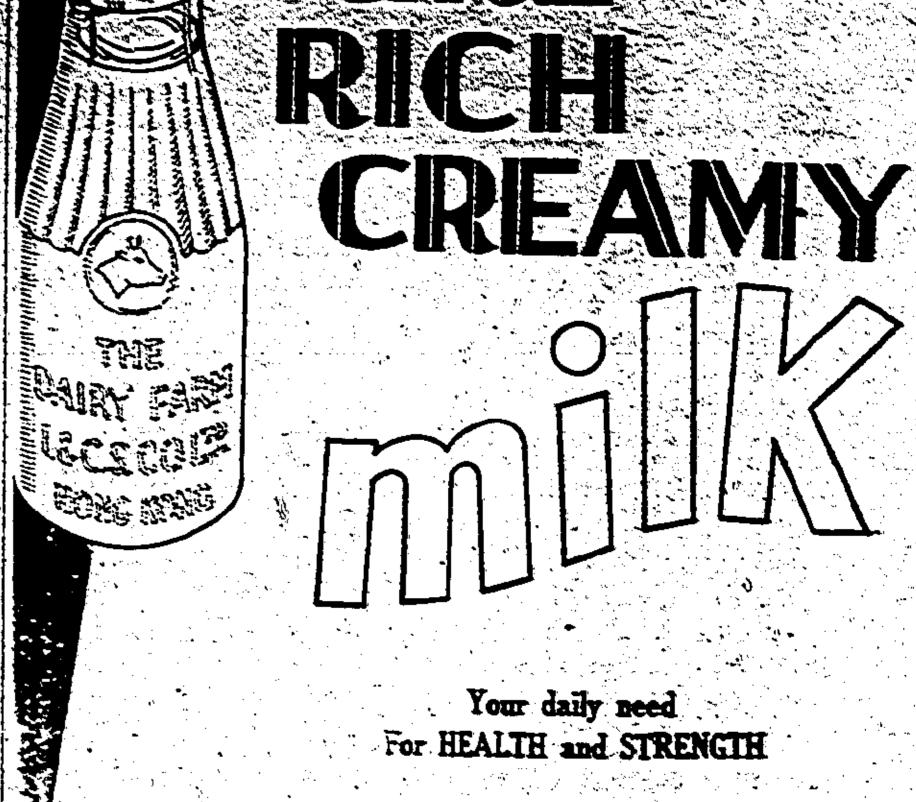

Free and alone, Jesop roamed his new domain, and for a week he was happy there. The grass was sweet. Sunscorched, succulent leaves decked the three-thorn bushes. The round-headed flowers of the Karco bush left yellow pollen on his pink nostrils. And there was water to drink in plenty. in a cement trough filled by a silver-wheeled windmill. - Proudly the old bull wandered from e d to end of his new kingdom, nibbling at the rich growth, tossing his horns with superb elegance as he galloped beside the fence.

Alone in this large tract of veld he grew fatter and prouder in his mien as the first week slipped into the second. And now, too a new spirit took hold of him. Much of his veneer of domestication began ing a human being. he became more and more suspicious of man And so, with the passing of weeks, gradually the old herce, wild spirit of his untamed ancestors crept from it the milder spirit which generations of domestication had instilled in it. And thus it happened that a time came when the very sight of a human being sent him into a blind rage. He would charge across the veld after the intruder, making his unwelcomed visitor sprint for safety behind the barbed-wire fence

And the weeks passed. Days grew hotter. The earth's crust Midsummer had come to the Karoo. The sun, hanging like a golden ball on of fire in the sky, sapped the colour lirom the very heavens, so that the blue was that of the bitter smoke of a veld fire at noon. Those dustdevils, the whirlwinds, chased each other in thin tall columns across the veld. Mer. looked at the

Depression In Minorca

RELICS OF AN EARLY SETTLEMENT

(By "H. D. ZIMAN")

Powerful sun and a depressed peseta have combined in recent years to draw the British visitor to the Balearic Islands.

The imprisonment of Capt. Kane has illustrated a less agreeable quality of the Spanish. Mediterranean, a tendency for officialdom, over-sensitive and over-suspicious, to oring charges of "espionage" or "insulting authority." which could only be sustained before a jumpy court Capt. Kane's sentence is regretted alike by his own countrymen and their Spanish friends in Majorca, where he lies in prison. what can be the feelings in Minorca, where he was arrested? Minorca longs for "tourism" to cross the rather choppy sea that separates this smaller neighbour from Majorca, and it has special reasons for welcoming Britons.

Early History

The British governed Minorca during the best part of a century. taking it when the bold Stanhope seized Port Mahon in 1708; losing in 1756 by the fault of that unhappy Byng who was thereupon shot pour encourager les autres: then governing it twice againfrom 1763 to 1782 and from 1798 to 1802.

Curious Development Gen. Kane's correspondence and pamphlets written at the time show that his measures were by no means accepable to the disinherited Spanish Government the day. A bust of him is in Westminster Abbey, but he is not forgotten in Minorca, where he is puried and where a roadside memorial was erected to him less than ten years ago. It is at least curious that a Capt Kane of today should be now in prison for resisting the island's present au-

Berlin, To-day. Keen resentment is expressed here at the preposterous assertion published by the Paris Soir that Count Bassewitz, protocol chief of the Reich Foreign Office, had fled to a foreign country and had no intention of returning.

The motive was declared to be the Count's desire to escape from the "purging" now being undertaken by the Nazi regime of the foreign diplomatic service.

The whole story is a malicious fabrication. Count Bassewitz, who suffers from tropical disorders contracted when living in India. has several times undergone treatment by a specialist at the Hamburg Institute of Tropical Diseases, and has just gone on ordinary leave to South Germany, where he is staying at a well-known sanatorium.--Trans-Ocean Service.
